

Pain

Here is a message to suffering women, from Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, of R. F. D. 4, Washington Court House, Ohio. "I am glad to tell, and have told many women, what I suffered before I knew of Cardui and the great benefit to be derived from this remedy. A few years ago I became practically helpless..."

Card-u-i

The Woman's Tonic

"I was very weak," Mrs. Edwards goes on to say, "and could not stoop without suffering great pain... Nothing seemed to help me until I heard of Cardui and began the use of it... I gradually gained my strength... I am now able to do all my work." If you need a tonic take Cardui. It is for women. It acts gently and reliably and will probably help you as it helped this lady.

MONEY TALKS

To be sure money talks, especially money that is actively employed. Money that is idle is money asleep, and money doesn't talk in its sleep.

If you could hold all the money that passes through your hands it would be a fine thing for you, but if everybody else followed the same plan where would you get yours? The place for money is in a reliable bank like ours, safe but subject to your check. Hoarding money takes it out of circulation, and it is constantly liable to be lost. Money on deposit talks, and the things it says to you are "security, comfort, satisfaction." We invite you to open an account with us.

BANK DEPOSITS IN MISSOURI INCREASE A HUNDRED MILLIONS

Total Resources of State's Financial Institutions Make Gains That Are Most Gratifying.

The total resources of Missouri banks and trust companies have increased almost $100,000,000 during the last year despite the millions of dollars poured into the National Treasury for Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps, according to the annual report of State Bank Commissioner C. F. Enright, of Jefferson City. All classes of deposits show big increases during the year.

The report includes the resources of 1,407 banks and trust companies of the State and is exclusive of national banks. It shows that individual and savings deposits, surplus and stocks and bonds have all had a prosperous year, each one showing an increase.

The total resources at the close of business on June 28 were $693,657,430.09 as compared with $595,379,163.49 on June 30, 1917.

The individual deposits during the year increased $50,496,787.85, the deposits this year being $484,690,936.09, as compared with $434,194,149.24 for the year ending June, 1917.

The deposits of 40 banks and trust companies of St. Louis exclusive of national banks, showed an increase of more than $5,000,000. The deposits for the year ending June 28 were $181,710,807.67, while the deposits at the same period in 1917 were $175,384,372.36.

There was an increase in their saving deposits of approximately $47,000, which accounts have been hit hardest by the war saving certificates and war saving stamps. The saving deposits in St. Louis outside of national banks increased from $39,908,510.35 to $39,955,004.05.

The same banks showed an increase of more than $13,000,000 in bonds and stocks during the year, having reached a total of $71,483,537.19 in June, 1918.

There was almost an increase of $1,000,000 in savings accounts in all of the state banks during the year. The saving accounts in June had climbed to $60,325,114.42, as against $59,391,900.67 in June, 1917.

American Finds Italy's King a Royal Democrat

Hamilton Holt Interviews Victor Emmanuel at the Front, Where He Lives Rugged Life of a Soldier.

By GARRET SMITH.

An alliance with Republican France in the world war for democracy is perfectly understandable to every citizen of the United States. In the case of our other chief allies, however, there are still left some old-fashioned Americans, fed on the king-baiting school histories of a generation ago, who are a bit puzzled to find the country of George Washington lined up with the "king-ridden" nations of Europe.

But the King of Italy is not an old-fashioned King at all. This view of Victor Emmanuel as a royal democrat is strikingly interpreted by Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, who has just returned from Italy, where he had a most unusual interview with His Majesty.

Mr. Holt went to Italy as the representative of the Italy American Society at the time of the celebration of the third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war. He was received in Rome with much ceremony.

"Finally, after these formalities were over," Mr. Holt told me, "I was ference apparent to me in our status as I look back on it was that such an interview was a very unusual experience for me, while it was not at all unusual for the King, and I forgot to be conscious of that at the time.

"Victor Emmanuel impressed me as a sort of combination of Colonel House and the late Frank R. Stockton. He is a man of simple and charming manner, without pose, who has thrown himself heart and soul into the cause of his country and is working for it night and day, as hard as any other person in Italy. But he prefers to stay behind the scenes while doing it."

A Hard-Working Monarch.

That this unceremonious reception of a representative of the American Democracy was no pose for theatrical effect is clearly evident from Mr. Holt's report of what he observed and learned of the King's daily routine. The monarch has selected this little villa for his headquarters on account of its location in convenient reach of every part of the battle-line. Each morning he rises early, eats a simple breakfast, has a light luncheon put up for him, gets into his automobile and spends the day visiting some point on the line, conferring with the officers and talking with the soldiers, learning their needs first hand and inspiring them by his presence and his counsel. At night he studies the plans of battle for the following day and never retires without sending a letter to his family, to whom he is passionately devoted.

He has made observations of the battlefield from dirigibles and aeroplanes. At one time in 1915 he climbed to the snow-covered crest of Raich-Koel Mountains when the temperature was below zero in order that he might congratulate the Alpine troops who had just captured several Austrian positions.

Experiences Under Fire.

"In the course of our conversation," said Mr. Holt, "he gave me a graphic description of his experience in one town near the frontier. The Austrians discovered his presence in the town and began bombarding it. The King immediately withdrew from the town in order that, as he told me, he might not unnecessarily imperil the residents. What he did not tell me was that he departed from the town openly, for he was evidently much more concerned for the safety of the people than he was over the peril of his own life.

"He is very much interested in the mechanics of warfare. He described graphically the barrage drill of the Italian troops as he had witnessed it.

"He showed me with great glee a German cross from a captured airplane he had framed and hung on the wall of his room. He described the different designs he had seen painted on German planes and was particularly amused at one which had the design of a Teddy Bear."

His Democratic Traditions.

The King's ability to play his present role is the result both of his democratic inheritance from his Savoy ancestors and his Spartan upbringing. He was tutored by a stern, old army colonel, who, at the direction of the boy's royal father, treated him in every way like the son of a private citizen. He has ever since preferred simple, rigorous living. Hunting and mountain climbing are among his favorite pastimes.

"What did he have to say about the political and military situation?" I asked.

"You must remember," Mr. Holt replied, "that one cannot quote a King directly. While we discussed various phases of the situation very freely, I would not be at liberty to give a verbatim report of his opinions. In fact, he was careful in talking with me not to express himself positively on matters of state policy. When I encroached on such ground, he would generally counter by asking me what they told me in Rome about it."

An Admirer of America.

"For instance, I asked him if it was true that Italy desired America to send military aid to her. He asked if they told me that in Rome."

"Yes," I replied.

"The King said that was right—Italy did want our aid. He said we could help particularly by sending them steel and coal."

"He expressed a great deal of interest in American affairs and the American attitude toward the war and kept me busy answering thoughtful questions about them. He expressed the greatest feeling of friendship towards America and appreciation for what we have already done in the war. He thought our efforts already made were marvelous."

To Polish Steel.

A finely polished lusterless surface can be produced on steel by rubbing, after tempering, on a smooth iron surface with some ground oilstone till it is perfectly smooth, after which it should be laid on a sheet of paper and rubbed backward and forward until it acquires a fine dead polish.

Cost of Writing Letters.

Have you ever figured out the cost per letter of your business correspondence? Taking into consideration the cost of stationery and stamps, the salary of the stenographer, cost of all accessories to the typewriter, all overhead charges, and last, but not least, cost of time of the man who dictates the letters, it works out at 40 cents per letter, and that is an absolute minimum.—Popular Science Monthly.

I am Sincere! Stop Calomel! I Guarantee Dodson's Liver Tone

Listen to me! Calomel sickens and you may lose a day's work. If bilious, constipated or headachy read my guarantee.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe all the next day like violent calomel.
